

AN EDUCATED GENTLEMAN'S ADVICE TO HIS SON.

(Collection)

In promulgating your exoteric and esoteric cogitation or articulating your superficial sentimentalities, beware of platitudinous ponderosity. Let your conversational communication possess a clarified conciseness, a compacted perspicuity and comprehensibleness, a coalescent consistency and concatenated cogency.....

.....eschew all conglomerations of a flatulent gerry-mandering ; all jejune babblement and asinine affectation. Let your extemporaneous decanting and unpremeditated expectations have intelligibility, vivacious vivacity without rhodomontade or thrasonical bombast. Sedulously avoid all polysyllabic profundity, pompous prolixity, psittaceous vacuity, ventriloquistic velocity and vaniloquent vapidty.

In other words talk naturally, sensibly and truthfully. Say what you mean and mean what you say and never make use of long words.
